

Built like tanks

Freedom's liquid fertiliser tanks are unparalleled in performance, structural strength, product compatibility and corrosion resistance, the company says. They are built to withstand the formidable forces that liquid fertiliser can exert.

FREEDOM Tanks has the answer for tanks needed to transport thousands of litres of water by road or just a new chemical tank for a boom spray, the company says.

With a 40-year history which started in WA of designing and making tanks, the company's products are now used throughout Australia.

The quality-built and value-for-money tanks are used by farmers, local and state governments, truckers and water contractors.

As a market leader in designing and manufacturing high quality and reliable tanks for a wide range of uses, Freedom's product range includes cartage and storage tanks, cattle and sheep watering troughs and liquid fertiliser tanks.

The fertiliser tanks are unparalleled in performance, structural strength, product compatibility and corrosion resistance, the company says.

They are constructed to withstand the formidable forces that liquid fertiliser can exert, with a tough design.

Freedom also has one-piece seamless fibreglass storage tanks ranging in capacity from 4500L to 45,000L.

The tanks' gel coat finishes help keep water cooler and the thick, black internal coating blocks light, preventing the growth of biological contaminants such as algae.

Precision-moulded from high grade fibreglass, Freedom's cartage tanks are designed to withstand the rigorous forces generated by water in motion day after day, year after year.

Ranging in capacity from 200L to 15,500L, Freedom's fully baffled design has set the benchmark in quality, the company says.

"We can offer customers a range of tanks to suit a variety of uses," Freedom sales representative Dean Horner said.

"At Freedom Tanks, we offer our customers a quality product that lasts the test of time. Whatever the industry and whatever the task at hand, we have the tank for you."
